Aesthetic Judgement and Artistic creation: Impact & Implications on Visual Art

Dr. Neeru Bharti Sharma
Assistant Professor in Fine Art,
HMV Jalandhar.

ABSTRACT
A true judgement will enable the artist to be conscious of the norms while creating an art-work in future and a wrong can spoil the future of the artist. So, a good judge should be very much aware of the minute details and should have a clear picture in his mind about every norm while judgement. When we are talking about Aesthetical judgement, a view of Aesthetic Consciousness up to the level of Art Appreciation strikes our mind. So, by Aesthetical judgement, we mean a praise done by the critics regarding the art-work. The process of criticism and by an artist starts at the very moment when he starts creation. For example-When he rejects some forms and images, he also selects some of them. The rejection and the selection is done through some rules. But, such development inside the Aesthetical judgement will not be applicable here. We will only discuss about the fact that Aesthetical judgement is limited only to the art works and the audience. An artist himself is a judge.

KEYWORDS: aesthetic, critics, creation knowing that why the word 'good' has been used along with that very particular painting as the painting lacks harmony, balance etc. So, while giving a judge has to abide by certain rules and regulations. He should know certain facts about a painting like a composition (painting) should be balanced; there should be a harmony in the colors etc. It is because he has to give explanation of each and every fact to the viewers.

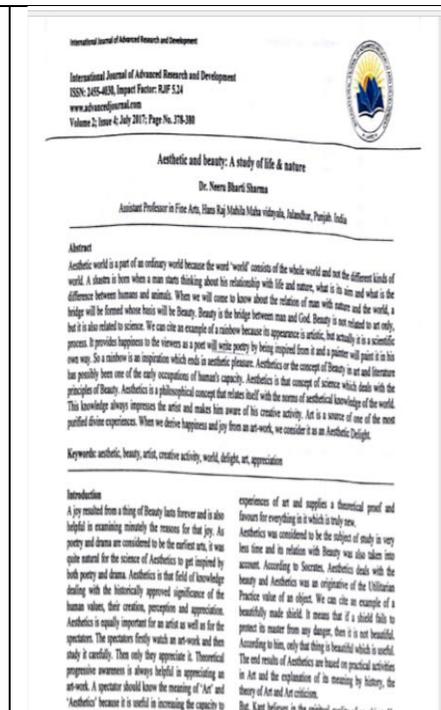

OBJECTIVE OF STUDY
To study the impact of harmony on the composition of subject matter in Aesthetic Judgement.

DISCUSSION
Aesthetical Judgement is complete and final in itself and is related to its particular culture. For example-Beauty like Greek culture cannot be found elsewhere. The Greeks lay emphasis on a sound mind in a sound body. So, they believe in the beauty of the human body. While the Indians lay stress on spiritual beauty. During the process of Aesthetical Judgement, our first concern is with the time to which that particular art-work belongs. The norms are directly related with the Aesthetical judgment. Every norm and culture has related norms according to Spengler. The art works are only significant within the circle of their culture, but, they have no significance outside it. In Music, the classical concepts of harmony are taken into account, while in Art, the principles of light and shade are more important. So, there are some general norms which help in developing every particular culture.

Form varies from art to art while content (subject matter) may be the same. Form in poetry is different from the form in music and painting.

A COMPARATIVE STUDY OF PARADIGM SHIFT IN MODERN INDIAN ART

Dr. Neeru Bharti Sharma
 Assistant Professor in Fine Art
 Hans Raj Mahila Mahavidyalaya
 Jalandhar (Punjab)

Abstract

Modern Indian art has become no less experimental than that of Europe or America, though in a somewhat different way. This development was done by the end of 18th century to last quarter of 19th century. All genuine art has to be the expression of the spirit of its time. There is not only the development Painting, but also the development of sculptures & prints was done at that time. Development of Modern art took place in the countries like Europe, Portugal, Islamic countries, Greek and India. In India: Sculptor's - The Impressionist of Rodin and Epstein is represented by Prodosh Dasgupta, Khastgir, Ramkinkar Baj, S.K.Bakre et
